Part 3

Questions 13-18

Read the text and questions below. Choose the best answer to each of the questions. On the answer sheet, circle A, B, C or D.

Kot is not like any other foreign investors in Vietnam that I have met.

His full name is Rafi Kot, the 55-year-old general director of Family Medical Practice Vietnam, a chain of healthcare clinics with eight facilities in the whole country. Kot arrived in Vietnam in 1988, maybe earlier than most other foreign investors, and has been staying since then and may stay forever. For a man who speaks of himself as a perfectionist, Kot says he cannot just leave Vietnam yet because his duty in this country is not completed yet.

Actually, as a doctor who joined a charity program started by a German non-governmental organization, his destination should have been Africa rather than Vietnam, but then fate brought him to this Southeast Asian country when another doctor in the program could not make his way to Vietnam, and Kot was chosen in replacement.

His first stop in Vietnam was in the northern province of Ninh Binh, where he and his team were in charge of developing healthcare services for an expected period of six months. Recalling the days when he first arrived in Ninh Binh, Kot says he was in shock when seeing the poor lives of local people, whom he describes as rustic people, or “nha que” in his perfect Vietnamese, along with the out-of-date healthcare facilities and equipment there. At that moment, Kot knew he wanted to be a part of developing a healthcare system for Vietnam.

“I love challenges and want to work for changes. I love this country and want to make a contribution to its development,” Kot says. “If everything was too easy, I would get bored and there would be no reason for me to stay.”

In 1994, Kot opened his first healthcare center in Vietnam. In 2002, he got married to a Vietnamese woman and now has two sons and a daughter. “I love my family very much, and I love Vietnam as well,” Kot says. And that love has made him stay in this country, despite many difficulties.

13. Where did Kot originally plan to go when he joined the German charity program?

- A. Africa
- B. Asia
- C. Australia
- D. Europe

14. What does “his” in the last line of the second paragraph refer to?

- A. another doctor
- B. fate
- C. Kot
- D. Vietnam

15. What kept Kot back in Vietnam after the first six months in Ninh Binh?

- A. his friends in Ninh Binh
- B. his family
- C. his ambition for change
- D. the German organisation

16. The word “out-of-date” in the third paragraph is closest in meaning to _____.

- A. different
- B. expensive
- C. old
- D. useless

17. What is the best word to describe Kot’s life in Vietnam now?

- A. Boring
- B. difficult
- C. exciting
- D. happy

18. Where is this passage most likely to be found?

- A. A business journal
- B. A personal website
- C. A doctor’s diary
- D. A newspaper

Part 4

Questions 19-25

Read the text below about a city in central Vietnam called Hue. Read the questions and decide if each sentence is correct or incorrect. If it is correct, circle T (True) on the answer sheet. If it is incorrect, circle F (False) on the answer sheet.

Hue is a city in central Vietnam. This city used to be the national capital during the Nguyễn Dynasty from 1802 to 1945. Since then, it has remained a peaceful city with many tourist attractions. With the Perfume River winding its way through the heart of the city, Hue is divided into two halves. To the north of the river, most of the construction still retains traces from the past, while the south side has seen much faster growth with high buildings and shopping areas.

Hue is home to a big cultural event every two years, the Hue Festival. This is a great chance for not only Hue locals but also international artists and performers to come and share their cultures. This event brings together the best cultural traditions of different countries around the world to this picturesque city in the heart of Vietnam. Despite all the fast-changing trends of the modern society, this event helps to preserve traditional cultural values.

Hue also boasts some of the best historical values in Vietnam, making it one of the most desirable destinations for both domestic and international visitors. Here tourists can enjoy the royal atmosphere by visiting several royal tombs and especially the Imperial City which was home to the Nguyễn Dynasty. Local specialties are also plentiful, ranging from the famous clam rice to a variety of traditional cakes made from rice flour. Here you can also go and experience the local traditions by visiting and shopping at some handicraft villages a dozen kilometers from the city center. Despite the introduction of mass production industries, it is amazing that several traditional and hand-made local products remain popular among Hue local people as well as tourists.

In the modern times, Hue has also become a busy urban area. Among the traditional markets are big shopping centers, and beside traditional restaurants are exotic fast food stores like the KFC or Lotteria. Although more cars run on local roads, you can still find several men leisurely riding tricycles (or ‘xich-lo’) along the streets taking tourists on sight-seeing tours of the city. It is pleasing to see the co-existence of the old and new in one single city like Hue.

19. Hue was the capital of Vietnam for more than one and a half centuries.
20. The south of the city is less modern than the north.
21. Hue Festival is a yearly event.
22. The Nguyễn Dynasty used to live in the Imperial City.
23. You can buy many products made by hand when you visit Hue.
24. The tricycles (or ‘xich-lo’) travel very fast.
25. The writer enjoys seeing the co-existence of tradition and modernity in Hue city.
